3 Biggest Mistakes that Parents of Student Athletes make in Barcelona

1. Choosing a school that exclusively caters to athletes because the academic standards at those schools are always very low since the school's priority is only on sports so students develop poor academic skills and afterwards are worse off than when they started.
2. Choosing a school that doesn't have psychological and emotional wellness as its core value so their students' mental health suffers tremendously.
3. Choosing a school only because it may have a flexible schedule and not because it is a fully accredited American school program or has an innovative learning pedagogy that can turn even previously average academic students into excellent ones ready for the rigors of university education in USA.
